Shavuot, known as the Feast of Weeks is a Jewish holiday that occurs on the sixth day of the Hebrew month of Sivan. It marks the all-important wheat harvest in the Land of Israel and it commemorates the anniversary of the day G-d gave the Torah to the entire nation of Israel assembled at Mount Sinai. The holiday is one of the Shalosh Regalim, the three Biblical pilgrimage festivals. It marks the conclusion of the Counting of the Omer, and its date is directly linked to that of Passover. The Torah mandates the seven-week Counting of the Omer, beginning on the second day of Passover, to be immediately followed by Shavuot. This counting of days and weeks is understood to express anticipation and desire for the giving of the Torah. On Passover, the people of Israel were freed from their enslavement to Pharaoh; on Shavuot they were given the Torah and became a nation committed to serving God. The word Shavuot means weeks, and the festival of Shavuot marks the completion of the seven-week counting period between Passover and Shavuot. On the second day of Shavuot, (this Saturday), the Yizkor memorial service is recited.

The signing

A group of tourists from Israel are visiting many of the famous sites in England. This afternoon, they are visiting Runnymede. Their guide tells the party, "You are standing on a very special place, because it was here that the Magna Carta was signed. The Magna Carta is now considered to be one of the most important legal documents in the history of democracy." "So when was it signed?" asks Abe, one of the party. The guide replies, "1215." Abe looks at his watch and says, "Oy vay, we've missed the signing by 90 minutes."

Harry's password

The London branch of Bank Leumi decides to carry out an audit of passwords used by their customers. To their surprise, they find that Harry Levy, one of their elderly customers, has regularly been using a very lengthy password. The password being used was: - AdamEveNoahMosesAbrahamIsaacJacobJosephJerusalem So the office manager phones Harry. "Mr. Levy," says the manager, "we've just discovered that you're using an unnecessarily long password to get into your online account with us. Why did you choose such a long password?" "I only did what I was instructed to do by your office," replies Harry. "So what did they tell you to do?" asks the manager. Harry replies, "They told me that the password had to be 8 characters long and had to include at least one capital."
