TORAH PORTION:

Yitro (Jethro)

PAGE 288

Moses' father-in-law, Jethro, hears of the great miracles which G-d performed for the people of Israel, and comes from Midian to the Israelite camp, bringing with him Moses' wife and two sons. Jethro advises Moses to appoint a hierarchy of magistrates and judges to assist him in the task of governing and administering justice to the people.

The children of Israel camp opposite Mount Sinai, where they are told that G-d has chosen them to be His "kingdom of priests" and "holy nation." The people respond by proclaiming, "All that G-d has spoken, we shall do."

On the sixth day of the third month (Sivan), seven weeks after the Exodus, the entire nation of Israel assembles at the foot of Mount Sinai for the Giving of the Torah. G-d descends on the mountain amidst thunder, lightning, billows of smoke and the blast of the shofar, and summons Moses to ascend.

G-d proclaims the Ten Commandments, commanding the people of Israel to believe in G-d, not to worship idols or take G-d's name in vain, to keep the Shabbat, honour their parents, not to murder, not to commit adultery, not to steal, and not to bear false witness or covet another's property. The people cry out to Moses that the revelation is too intense for them to bear, begging him to receive the Torah from G-d and convey it to them.

The miser

Jonathan had worked hard all his life and had saved most of his earnings. He was a real miser when it came to his money, which he loved more than just about anything.

Just before he died, Jonathan said to his wife, "Now listen, Sarah, when I die, I want you to take all my money and place it in the coffin with me. Please do this because I want to take my money with me to the afterlife. Promise me."

She promised she would.

Finally the day came when Jonathan died. At his funeral, Sarah was with her best friend, Rebecca. After they had buried him, Rebecca said to Sarah, "I hope you weren't stupid to put all that money in there with Jonathan."

Sarah replied, "Well, I promised him - I'm a good Jew and I can't lie. I promised him that I would put that money in with him."

"You mean to tell me," said Rebecca, "you put every penny of his money in the coffin with him?"

"I sure did," said Sarah, "I got it all together, put it into my bank account and wrote him out a cheque."
