TORAH READING:

Rosh Hashanah – Second Day

The torah reading for the second day of Rosh Hashanah tells of the very difficult test to which Abraham was put by G-d. Abraham is asked to offer up his beloved son, Isaac, as a sacrifice. Abraham is prepared to carry out this most difficult challenge of his life. But at the last moment, as Isaac lies bound on the alter at the top of Mt. Moriah, G-d makes it known to Abraham, that He does not want human sacrifice, and Isaac lives. Here, then, at the beginnings of Judaism, it is made clear that our faith is to be different from the ancient religions of which human sacrifices were a natural part.

HAFTORAH READING:

The prophet Jeremiah, who lived to see the destruction of the First Temple and the exile of his people, brings to them a message of hope for the future. Jeremiah urges that the exiles repent of their wrongdoings and return to a full faith in G-d. He, in turn, will restore them to their land and they shall live in peace once more.

One of the important themes of Rosh Hashanah is Jehovah, repentance of wrong and a return to right. The Haftorah emphasizes this theme.
