Parshas Terumah

PARSHA – Pg. 326

HAFTORAH – Pg. 336

TORAH PORTION:

Terumah (Offering)

The people of Israel are called upon to contribute thirteen materials—gold, silver and copper; blue-, purple- and red-dyed wool; flax, goat hair, animal skins, wood, olive oil, spices and gems—out of which, G-d says to Moses, "They shall make for Me a Sanctuary, and I shall dwell amidst them." On the summit of Mount Sinai, Moses is given detailed instructions on how to construct this dwelling for G-d so that it could be readily dismantled, transported and reassembled as the people journeyed in the desert.

In the Mishkan's (Sanctuary) outer courtyard are an altar for the burnt offerings and a laver for washing. The Tent of Meeting is divided by a curtain into two chambers. The outer chamber is accessible only to the kohanim, the descendants of Aharon. This contains the table of showbreads, the menorah, and the golden altar for incense. The innermost chamber, the Holy of Holies, may be entered only by the kohen gadol, and only once a year, on Yom Kippur. Here is the Ark that held the Ten Commandments inscribed on the two tablets of stone that G-d gave to the Jewish nation on Mount Sinai. All of the utensils and vessels, as well as the construction of the Mishkan, are described in great detail.

The sea rescue

Jacob is pulled from the sea at a beach in Miami by a lifeguard. When his wife Judith sees all the commotion, and then realizes that it's her Jacob who is lying flat out on the sands, she goes running over, sobbing all the way. When she gets to him, she shouts, "Oy Vay, Jacob, Jacob, vats happened to you?" The lifeguard tells her to calm down. "Lady," he says, "please don't get too hysterical - I'm looking after your husband. I'm now going to give him some artificial respiration and I'm sure he'll then be fine." "Vat do you mean artificial respiration?" Judith says to the lifeguard, "Mine Jacob gets either real respiration or he gets notting at all."
